About KPCW:

KPCW 91.9 FM has been on air since July 2, 1980. It reaches nearly three-quarters of Summit and Wasatch counties and boasts a larger audience than any other radio station in the area. According to the station's research, KPCW serves over half of the adult population in the "Wasatch Back" as the only daily source of local information. It specializes in local issues, with five hours of programming a day solely dedicated to city and county news and interviews. It is a non-profit, volunteer supported organization whose mission is to educate, inform, entertain, and provide access to a diverse community with quality programming. As the NPR affiliate for Summit and Wasatch counties, it hosts programs such as Morning Edition and Wait, Wait...Don't tell Me!. It also hosts news and entertainment programs from American Public Media (APM), Public Radio International (PRI), and the BBC World Service. When not featuring such programs, more than fifty local volunteer DJs play music that fits the station's theme of, "Something Old, Something New, Something Covered, Something Blues."

About the KPCW Radio News Scripts:

This archival collection is made up entirely of newscast scripts and news stories read on air by the journalists at KPCW, Park City's public radio and local NPR affiliate. Topics covered include: local politics throughout Summit County and state, national, and international politics that particularly affected Park City; local crime and police matters; environmental issues including water rights; local sports; the 1998 Olympic bid and the 2002 Olympics; road conditions and construction; weather and emergencies; and other news related to Park City. Many of the scripts contain handwritten notes and edits from the newscasters.

Though the collection contains scripts from the twenty-year period between 1985 and 2005, there are significant gaps in coverage. There are no scripts between the end of 1996 and beginning of 1999, nor between June 2002 and January 2005.

Collection arrangement:

Most individual papers are not dated; however, the original folders the papers came in were dated with month and year by KPCW. Processing decisions were based almost exclusively on the original labeling provided by the radio station when the material was donated to the museum. As such, news scripts have been arranged chronologically to the best of the staff's ability. A brief description of a representation of a folder's contents has been written up. Keep in mind that it is non-exhaustive and the folder likely covers many other topics.
